About

Inspire and equip your professors with practical, easy-to-use ways to take course engagement to the next level. These sessions simplify engagement, making it fun for professors to learn new ideas, techniques, and technology.

Kinda Wilson presents top-rated, interactive keynotes and workshops at events ranging from national professor associations to business conferences. She is a marketing instructor at Oklahoma State University and at CIMBA Italy. Over the years, she has helped universities redesign their courses to become flagships on campus and received multiple university and national teaching awards. Her interactive curriculum is used in colleges across the U.S. and overseas.
